

THE PATIENT PORTAL

You can now register to access your own health records through the patient portal called Your EPR (electronic patient record.) The patient portal is kept secure, and the registration process means that only you can access this information.

Some information can take up to 21 days to show in the patient portal. This is because a consultant must check each result and sign each letter.

What can I see in My EPR Patient Portal?

- Some letters that have been sent to your GP and copied to you
- Your recorded allergies.
- Some future appointments.
- Some basic test results.
- View some patient education leaflets.
